

Milfred Cleveland, a Navajo boy, who was one of the party from Teller institute out camping on Leon creek, while en route home wandered away from his companions and was lost. His absence was not noted for some time after his disappearance. An unavailing search was made at the time. Sunday, under the leadership of Captain Lemmen, the male scholars of the school made a search in the Plateau country in the vicinity of the Hogback, but found no traces of the boy. It is presumed the little fellow has found some friendly shelter in a settler's cabin and will be found shortly. Every effort will be made to locate him.

Cleveland, Milford search

Clipped By:

skarenm

Wed, Jul 6, 2022